What did the clown do when his clothes got torn?

Read the story.

The Careless Clown

I have a friend. His name is Lemon. He is a clown. He is a careless clown. I always watch his show. He always ends up with torn jackets, socks and pants. "Friend, take care of your things." I usually tell him.

So Lemon bought a sewing machine. Every time his clothes got torn, he sewed them with the machine. His clothes were full of stitches.

The day before Lemon's birthday, we had a meeting. We wanted to thank him for making us happy by giving him a party. We were worried about what Lemon would wear to the party.

"Dress like anyone else," one friend said. "You will look elegant in a suit," another friend added. "What will I wear?" he asked me. So we went to his house and opened his cabinet.

"This is awful. Your clothes are full of stitches," I said. "But I don't have other clothes to wear," he said. "These clothes will just be fine," he added.

At the party, our friends were surprised to see Lemon. The hero of the show was in his old clown suit, full of stitches.

The next day, Lemon asked me to go with him. We went to a store selling suits. He bought a suit. "This time I will take care of this suit," he promised.
